STUDIO TASK

The subject of this semester's studio is to analyze the factors which contributed to the Kerameikos & Metaxourgeio situation today, extract the potential of housing, tourism and shared economies. Also to investigate the existing building stock, the derelicts and the public space and evaluate which are the drivers of change for the area. In other words, to propose a sustainable urban regeneration in an area which is a social melting pot, taking into consideration the assets of the past and transforming them into a dynamic, productive and livable quarter for the future. The studio is a design and research studio, setting the goal to work in all the major scales: from the wide city scale to the urban block and the housing unit. The students will be asked to work on both scales simultaneously in order to deepen their understanding of the impact of a single place to the city and vice versa.
